

BEREJKLIAN RE-ANNOUNCES $2M FOR CONSERVATORIUM

The Premier came to the Central Coast today to re-announce $2m for the Central Coast Conservatorium Music first promised by Mike Baird for the 2015 NSW Election.

The Liberals committed $10m for the Regional Performing Arts Centre and $2m for the Conservatorium of music two Elections ago.

Quotes from David Harris MP

"It's a bit rich for the Premier to visit the Central Coast and re-announce money promised over 5 years ago."

"The Central Coast need a premier who is committing new money for the Central Coast for the back log of road projects and other infrastructure, not making re-announcements of 5 year promises and pretending they are new."

Quotes from Liesl Tesch MP

"it's back to the future for Gladys who seems to be trying to relive the glory days of Mike Baird's premiership."

"The people of the Peninsula would prefer the Premier to announce that work was commencing on the Woy Woy Level Crossing, not just feel good stories about funding that hasn't seen the light of day for five years."

"It's time for Gladys to realise that the community wants more than just re-announcements or money for Sydney - we want to see action on local projects."
